

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Thursday, August 28

1997

Marshall Engineer to Lead Mission Operations in Moscow, Russia

Marshall Engineer Patricia Moore will soon become NASA's space mission operations lead in Moscow, Russia. Her assignment will coincide with Astronaut Dr. David Wolfe's scheduled stay aboard the Russian space station Mir, from September 1997 to January 1998. She will be responsible for ground control of all STS-86 U.S. hardware in orbit, communications between ground and the U.S. crew member and scheduling of the U.S. crew member's activities.

MMA Meeting 5 p.m. Thurs. at Picnic Pavilion

Mir Mission Update 10:15 a.m. Fri. On NASA TV

Big Spring Jam Discount Passes Available at NASA Exchange

The Big Spring Jam music festival will be held Sept. 26 - 28 in downtown Huntsville. Discount weekend passes are available at the NASA Exchange for $15, a $3-savings off the regular advance rate. Admission at the gate will be $10 a day or $20 for a weekend pass. More than 60 artists and groups are scheduled to perform. For more information see the Big Spring Jam website at <http://www.bigspringjam.org>. Contact: Exchange, 4-7564.

Friday is Entry Deadline for Sept. 6 Golf Tournament at Guntersville State Park